13 to 20-year-old
ANNUAL WELL-CHILD CHECKUPS

WHY IT’S IMPORTANT TO MAKE TIME FOR WELL-CHILD VISITS
Adolescence is a time of many physical, social, and emotional developments, as well as an increased drive for independence. Youth need to be given the opportunity to ask questions they might not feel comfortable asking others. A PCP can answer questions related to safety, body changes, mental health, emotional well-being, behaviors that put youth at risk, substance use, stress, and sleep.

GET THEM INVOLVED
Involving youth in their own healthcare at an early age will ensure a slow smooth transition in the future. If youth are comfortable they can begin to talk one-on-one with the health care provider at their appointments, schedule and check in for their own appointment and know how to contact their health care providers.
